Rules & Regulations

GS in Alpine Ski Racing (Giant Slalom):

In alpine skiing, GS refers to Giant Slalom, a type of race that involves skiers navigating a set of gates placed farther apart compared to slalom events. Some of the general rules and regulations for GS races include:

1. Course Layout: The course is composed of a series of gates (flags) that skiers must pass between. The gates are placed at wider intervals compared to slalom courses, and racers must turn around the poles.
2. Race Format: Races generally consist of two runs, with the total time from both runs determining the winner. If a skier fails to complete a run, they are disqualified.
3. Timing: Timing is measured to the hundredth of a second. In case of a tie, the tied skiers are awarded the same position.
4. Equipment Requirements: Skiers must use appropriate GS skis, which are generally longer and have specific characteristics suited for high-speed turns. Helmets and other protective gear are required.
5. Gate Violations: Missing or incorrectly passing a gate leads to disqualification. Gates are typically marked by two poles with flags.
6. Start Order: The start order is usually determined by a random draw or seeding based on prior race results.
